JR Troyer's Personal History - Mission Creek Log Homes Builder

JR Troyer was raised on a farm in the north central part of Ohio. At an adventurous age of 22, JR was getting restless. His brother Willie had meanwhile moved to Montana in 1990 and talked of opportunity.

After deciding to move to Rexford Montana, in October of 1992 JR started working for Kootenai Log Homes. It did not take JR very long to determine in his mind this was challenging, especially with building a home with a chainsaw. The work was rewarding to make each rustic log fit tight and snug in the corners.

In 1993, the company made some ownership changes with JR & 5 other partners purchasing Kootenai Log Homes. As JR gained in experience building log homes, a lot of changes were made. In 2000, JR sold his shares and moved to the Mission Valley.

While building cedar gazebos for six years in the Mission Valley, JR's log home passion never left him to craft log homes. JR rented a lot on Hwy 93 and formed Mission Creek Log Homes.

Since then, JR & his crew have been building log homes all over the northwestern parts of the country. Mission Log Homes offers pricing that includes shipping with no hidden costs.

JR lives in an Amish community with his wife Nancy and their six children. Jeremy age 8, Jolena age 7, Julia age 6, Joshiah age 4, Janette age 2 and Juanita age 1.

JR owns 60 acres and still farms with his draft horses. His family lives in their own log home that was built in 2001. You can view JR's home on the website, it is the 30x46 log home built with a sun room, large deck, full basement, and other custom extras.

Thank you and may God bless your day,
